President Urges Turn-Out At Midday Demonstration

Today's mass forum to protest Governor Reagan's proposed tuition fee is "the most effective means the students have of informing the governor and the legislature how we feel about tuition," according to ASB Pres, Jerry Spolter.

The forum, scheduled to begin at 12:30 p.m. at the south end of Seventh Street, will feature student and faculty speakers.

Today's rally is part of a mass opposition by the 18 California State Colleges to the proposed fee hike. It is point three of the action plan initiated by the California State College Student Presidents Association. Spolter, named chairman of the committee for action against the governor's proposal, told the Daily, "I hope the students will recognize the imperative nature of the campaign to oppose tuition in order to provide an immediate reaction to the governor and legislators of California."

should be the cry of the students of SJS in support of free public higher education in the state of California. . . This tuition fee is an irrational proposal to meet the Governor's financial crisis since the burden of California's debt is transferred from the public sector as a whole to the students. I call upon you as students to register your opposition to the tuition fee by attending the mass forum today. Through the concerted effort on the part of all students, we can responsibly demonstrate to the legislature and the governor that the students of SJS are opposed to this measure."

Tuition Petition

There will be two booths on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at which students can sign the petition to be sent to Gov. Reagan urging him not to establish tuition and cut the state college budget.

Booths will be located in front of the Spartan Bookstore and in front of the cafeteria. Students are asked to contribute 10 cents in order to pay for the telegram. Copies of the resolution will be at the booths for students to read.

Music Majors Offer Jazz, 'Really Blues'

Numbers arranged by music majors Patrick Castle, Michael Magner and Jerrold Powers will be among those performed in "Really the Blues" by the SJS Jazz Ensembles at 8:15 tonight in Concert Hall. Admission is free.

The five ensembles will be directed by Dwight Cannon, instructor in music, and by Dean Stringer, music education major and assistant director.

Powers is arranger of "Naima," "Blues in the Night" and "Stratusphunk." He also will be featured on trombone in "El Camino." Castle is arranger of "There Will Never Be Another You" and Magner of "I've Got a Lot of Livin' to Do."

The groups will also perform "That Old Black Magic," "Cute," "Theme and Variations," "Never Will I Marry," "The Shadow of Your Smile," "Bess, You Is My Woman," "Yesterdays" and "Malgwen."

Other featured players will be Stringer, tenor sax; Bell Resch, Kirby Shaw, Rod Christensen, trumpets; Geoff Sharp, trombone; Bob Weil, alto sax; Ed Abner, guitar; Mike Magner, Elaine Hilbert, piano; Ralph Humphrey, drums; and Castle, bass.

Jazz Ensemble II was selected from 40 college groups to compete with nine others in the Cerritos College Jazz Festival to be held in March. The event will be reported by national television.

Winners of the semifinals in Norwalk will receive a free trip to the finals in Miami Beach, Fla.

Dr. Clark's Talks Appear in Print

A collection of speeches to students by SJS President Robert D. Clark has been published by the Associated Students.

The booklet, entitled "Academic Achievement — First and Foremost," includes addresses given by Dr. Clark over the past several years. The speeches are divided into five general areas: Academics, Special Occasions, Welcomes, Introductions and Memorials.

Included are Dr. Clark's views on "The Goals of the University," "The Two Faces of Democracy," and the title address, "Academic Achievement — First and Foremost."

Mike Neufeld, graduate student, edited the publication and describes it "as a tribute to Dr. Clark's talents as a public speaker."

Copies of the booklet are available in the Spartan Bookstore for $1.

Compromise Retains Moreland in ASB Job

By DIANE TELESKO
Spartan Daily Staff Writer

The stalemate between ASB Information Officer Charles K. Moreland and ASB Pres, Spolter has been broken and a compromise reached.

The four-man arbitration board decided early yesterday morning that Moreland is to be retained at a reduced salary.

An exclusive release to the Spartan Daily, signed by both Spolter and Moreland, stated: "The position of ASB Information Officer shall be redefined to include additional duties delegated by the ASB President and limited to a salary of $75 per month. This position shall continue until such time as the currently appropriated funds shall cease to be available. If council appropriates additional funds for this position, Charles K. Moreland shall remain in the stated position until June, 1967, or until the appointment of his successor."

Sparta Sings Entries Due

Starting today, applications are due for entry into this year's Sparta Sings.

Scheduled on April 8, in the Civic Auditorium, the songfest is open to all interested college approved living centers. Four separate divisions including women's, men's, mixed and mixed production will be in the competition.

Originally Sparta Sings was divided into two separate programs, "March Melodies" for women's living centers, and "Spring Sings" for men's. However, in 1962 the two programs were combined and renamed Sparta Sings. This will be the sixth annual production of the all-college song festival.

"Applications are still available in the Student Activities Office," stated Jackie Edenhorn, co-chairman of Sparta Sings.

Last year's Sweepstakes winner was the production of "Under the Spell of Al Jolson," presented by Sigma Kappa Sorority and Sigma Phi Epsilon Fraternity.

However, the arbitration board established as fact: "The raising of the charge of racial discrimination against the ASB President has been found to be without basis and it is one which Charles K. Moreland sincerely regrets."

"The basis for termination of the position of ASB Information Officer was due to a desire to bring about a savings in the budget," release continued. "The ASB President, in an attempt to mitigate the financial problem created by the termination of Charles K. Moreland, agrees to reinstate him in the position at a reduced salary. This action seems to be the most equitable solution to both parties."

The arbitration board, composed of two justices, one representative for Moreland and one representative for Spolter, reached their decision at 4 a.m. yesterday after seven and a half hours of discussion.

The board was appointed by the Judiciary after Student Council voted that consideration of the matter was not within its constitutional realm and should go to the judicial body.

Spolter looks on. Moreland's case was sent to an arbitration board, who decided yesterday to reinstate him to office at a lower salary.

Reagan's Budget Freeze Threatens State Services

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Reagan administration yesterday clamped a freeze on all state hiring and closed eight of the state's 13 service centers designed to provide advice to the poor in racially troubled areas.

Lyn Nofziger, Gov. Reagan's press secretary, told newsmen all hiring will be stopped until further notice — except for vacant jobs that must be filled to keep state departments operating.

At the same time, the Republican governor — under fire for his economy plan — prepared for a meeting with University of California President Clark Kerr and a committee of U.C. regents. He also planned to meet with Glenn S. Dumke, chancellor of the state colleges, during a session of the governor's council.

Asked about Reagan's reaction to state college plans to suspend admission of new students for the fall pending a decision on economy plans, Nofziger said:

"If the state colleges are asked to take a cut, then it will be up to them to best utilize . . . money. They are in the situation to see where they could best cut or hold the line."

Spencer Williams, Health and Welfare Agency administrator, said that most of the centers to provide aid information for the poor were being closed "so that better service can be provided to the five centers that will remain in operation."

He said the remaining centers would be made a pilot study rather than a permanent program, saving $4.4 million in next year's budget.

The legislature approved the centers last year and appropriated $3.4 million for them. Williams said any money saved by closing centers would be used for the ones still open.

Closing the offices had been rumored in the capitol for several weeks.

Williams said centers will remain in South and East Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Diego and Richmond. Centers will be closed Feb. 11 in Oakland, Venice, San Bernardino, Long Beach, Fresno, Bakersfield, Stockton and Vallejo.

"I don't think it's the third act yet," Reagan said Wednesday night over questions about his financial plans.

Ominous Shroud Clouds Today

Today is Friday, the 13th day of January.

The ominous shrouds of blackness that surround this day are based upon the ancient beliefs in pagan spiritual atmosphere.

Those who appear to seriously believe in the unlikelihood of this day may rightly be called superstitious. The savage notion for the conduct of this day can be traced to a church fast day or a day of taboo.

To the SJS student, today means the start of another weekend, the close of another semester and a day that the flicks show a 12 o'clock triple horror show.

Watch out for that black cat, broken mirror and tilted ladder, however.

Snow Queen To Highlight Events in Heavenly Valley

With a new queen to reign over the festivities and finals less than a week away, Winter Carnival spirits are rising high.

Valerie Dickerson, newly named Snow Queen, will preside over all SJS events at Heavenly Valley from Jan. 28 through Feb. 4.

The SJS sponsored week long ski festival will offer students discounts on ski lifts, lessons, lodgings and food.

Student discount cards are available for 50 cents in the Student Affairs Business Office and at booths in front of the Cafeteria and the Spartan Bookstore.

The student discount card will also entitle holders to free admission to all SJS functions during the week.

Activities will include an intercollegiate ski meet, Jan. 29; a torchlight parade down the face of Gun Barrel Mountain and a dance at Heavenly Valley Lodge, Jan. 30; and a Fondue Party at Pioneer Lodge, Jan. 31.

Other activities will provide open skiing, talent shows, dances and mixers.

Student rates are also available in many of the motels and lodges in the area with discount cards. The special rate for a group of four is $2.50 a night per person and for a group of six, $2.25 per night. A list of participating motels is available when tickets are purchased.

Meal tickets good at specific restaurants are available for $3. The ticket is good for breakfast and dinner.

All transportation and housing reservations must be made privately, according to Don Sehl, Winter Carnival chairman. He also reminds that faculty and administration are welcome to participate in Winter Carnival activities.

News Briefs

'The Loved One' on Screen

"The Loved One" is tonight's Friday Flick, shown at 7 and 9:30 in Morris Dailey Auditorium.

The comedy was directed by Tony Richardson of "Tom Jones" fame, and stars Robert Morse, Jonathan Winters and Rod Steiger. Admission is 35 cents to the college community.

Officer Recruiting Tuesday

A U.S. Army officer recruiting team will be on campus Tuesday. The team will be interviewing men and women for the Army two-year officer program, according to Maj. Donald L. Gibson, team leader. After completing 16 weeks of basic and advanced training, college graduates accepted in the program are guaranteed attendance at an officers candidate school which lasts 23 weeks. A graduate is commissioned a second lieutenant and must then serve two years in the Army.

Finals Schedule

Group I classes meet Daily, MWF, MTW, MWTh, MTWf, MWThF, MW, MF, WF, M, W, or F.
Group II classes meet TTh, T, Th, TWTh, MTTh, TThF, MTThF, MTWTh, or TWThF.

To avoid conflicts in final examinations, students must not sign up for two classes in the same group at the same hour.

What's the Policy

The new state administration's inconsistency over its higher education budget freeze has left educators at all levels of the college and university system out in the cold.

State College Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke Wednesday felt compelled to install his own freeze on admissions until definite decisions are made.

Chancellor Dumke made his announcement after a conference with Gov. Ronald Reagan's financial aides. Dr. Dumke declared after the meeting that the State Colleges may have to face a $7.6 million budget cut. As with several previous controversial feelers within the past two weeks, the governor's office has yet to take an official stand on the cuts.

In the meantime the futures of some 22,300 prospective state college students remain uncertain. It now appears that many of them will be forced to make applications to junior colleges.

Such a possible increase in junior college enrollment would greatly overburden JC facilities and capabilities. This would also force up local property taxes, which Gov. Reagan has pledged to reduce.

Continued contradictions and rash statements can only hamper further the future of this state's higher education. Both students and educators deserve to know how their state leaders interpret the future role of education.

'Don't Cry That the Sky Is Falling'

'Let Us Find Alternative To Property Tax Raise'

Editor:

Judging from the reaction of our student body president, Gov. Ronald Reagan is now preparing to close the doors of our State Colleges to thousands of deserving and qualified students by imposing a $200-a-year tuition. If his source of information is the Spartan Daily, his reaction is not difficult to understand.

The primary error that the Daily has committed is to attribute statements and information to Gov. Reagan which he has not, in fact, said or released. First of all, let us candidly realize that Gov. Reagan has at no time recommended that a tuition is the only answer to the state's financial crisis. He has said that it is an alternative which, under the present circumstances, must be considered. In light of the fact that California voters strongly indicated that they do not want an increase in the property tax rate, the main source of state revenue, it is obvious that other sources must be tapped.

First, let us consider the article which appeared in yesterday's paper and see how it compares with the articles which appeared in the San Jose Mercury. The Daily reported that "the axe had fallen" on the State College system, and that Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke said that the State Colleges would be forced to deny admission to an estimated 22,300 new students. However, in the Mercury, we read that the California State Colleges will suspend the admission of new students for next year "until the system's financial picture is clarified."

We also read in a statement issued Wednesday night by Pres. Robert Clark of SJS which said that "this action appears to be necessary because of the limitation of funds and the insistence of the trustees and the governor that we cannot sacrifice the quality of education we now offer."

In addition, we offer the information contained in an article by Lou Cannon, Mercury correspondent in Sacramento, who reported that a high administration source repeated Reagan's statement of Tuesday that tuition was still "an alternative" under consideration.

Also its absence from the budget message for Jan. 20 would make it unlikely that the issue would be seriously proposed this year.

Finally we hasten to point out that the "governor's financial crisis" is not of his own making. The previous governor, in order to hide a deficit, adopted an accrual system of accounting in which the state was enabled to collect revenues over a 15-month period to cover a 12-month period of expenses. Now Reagan is faced with nine months of revenue to cover a 12-month period of expenses.

Thus our job should be to search about for alternatives to increases in the property tax, as well as tuition, so that we are not faced with tuition next year or in future years. But let us not cry that the sky is falling when, in fact, the sky is not falling. Let us soberly get to the business of finding additional revenue based upon an accurate knowledge of what is being proposed and what isn't.

Student Council Fails To Utilize 'Publicity'

Editor:

There is a tragedy happening at our college. The dismissal of C. K. Moreland as public information officer has brought the problem to a climax. The main problem is not one of racial discrimination but one of why have a student government? There are many answers to this question but the one I think is the most correct is to provide programs for the students it represents. Student government's fault has been in not helping to make these programs a success. Being on the College Union Program Board, I have to take some blame for the content, but much of the blame must be put on Mr. Wills and Mr. Spolter for not using the publicity office they command in making the programs known to the students. For example, just this Monday the Daily made a tragic mistake and forgot to publish Prof. Jean Houston's evening lecture. This was only because of lack of communication and information from student government.

The Moreland affair has come about, as

That's All She Wrote

By LINDA LAMANNO

The light is getting dim and my eyes grow weaker from the strain.

It's been so long since I saw the sun, that bright shining radiance that tells me I'm alive.

I don't think I am. I feel dead. My head throbs and my arms grow heavy and the words before me are becoming blurs and wavy blobs.

I've done this before, this pain-racked torture that has to be done.

I've felt the agony and vowed "never again," but I do it—over and over again until I cannot be considered human.

The greatest crime of all is that I'll have to do it again, and maybe even again.

I'll be hollow-eyed and vacuum-headed as I walk the last, final steps to my ultimate agony.

The time ticks thunderously by. It says I must concentrate, focus, shun the stabbing agony through my shoulders and into my back.

I must lift heavy eyelids and heavier arms to turn another page—and another—and another—and another.

The time for finals is upon me, and I have no escape, no escape at all.

The Question Man

By CHARMAIN TYLER

How do you feel about proposals to charge tuition in the state colleges?

CHARLES M. RICHARDSON, junior, business:

I think they should. I feel education is not that hard to come by. If a person wants an education badly enough, I think he can work to get one. Besides, I'm a staunch Republican.

BOB DOUGLAS, graduate, biology:

Traditionally, California colleges and universities have been tuition-free. I don't think it should be dropped at this time unless it is an absolute necessity. I don't think it is an absolute necessity. One of the big issues concerning this is the lessening of taxes. But if tuition is increased, it will force more students into junior colleges. This will force a greater tax burden on the local community to support the junior colleges. So if they're doing this for a tax purpose, they're defeating their purpose before they begin.

LIBBY McMAHON, sophomore, political science:

I really don't think it's that much money if you really want to go to school. I'm one of those who can afford it and I don't know what it's like for those who can't. If Reagan is doing it to get back at Berkeley, I think it's stupid. I don't think it'll accomplish anything.

NORA CRANCH, junior, home economics:

I feel like I wouldn't be able to go to college again. I don't like it. I'm backing Reagan and I hope that something can be worked out, but I hope it won't affect the state colleges.

FRANK PAONE, senior, industrial management:

I think tuition should be charged definitely for out-of-state students and graduate students. I'd like to see them phase the first two years out of state colleges and give them to junior colleges. The junior colleges, at least in this area, are terrifically staffed and facilitated. Students can get their feet wet in junior colleges, and the standards are just as stiff.

Lynn Ludlow, Berkeley reporter for the San Francisco Examiner, "The hippies and radicals at Cal are like another civilization. Strange clothes, strange hair, a completely different idea of life."

Ludlow, for the last year the Examiner's man at Cal, gave his views on his job and on Cal's unique pastime of student rebellion. He was speaking before journalism students here yesterday. "Student radicals at Cal believe this society's wrongs are all reflected on their campus," he said. "Thousands of students, 8,000 counted at one rally, are voting with their feet by just attending the demonstrations. They feel that when good-hearted people march together they can change the world."

And who were the students striking against Nov. 30, 1966? "It was the administration. But the administration lost however much they gained by the ceasing of the strike: people on the outside who view the campus now look at it politically, see beatniks running the show."

Ludlow next examined the students, those not part of the New or Old Left, will now defend their outlooks on the matter of rules at Cal; they wouldn't have done this before the cops arrested those six students. The ones breaking the rules are doing it knowingly, but they don't suggest alternatives. If they were to begin trying to choose people to run the university and rules by which they must act, their coalition of protest groups would break up."

He told of the rigors of suspending judgment when reporting the happenings at Cal. "I'm the last person to know of any solutions to the problem," he revealed. "I get my information in many ways. Sometimes I'll just stand on a busy corner and ask the first 20 people who walk by—that's my representative sample of student opinion."

"It didn't make sense for the students to strike last November just before finals," he continued. "Those used to the old semester system seemed to feel the pressure of the shorter quarter method. I don't know if this is a cause or effect. Finals were the reason the strike folded, however."

Governor Ronald Reagan's recent threats to tighten the budget and activities of the Cal campus brought an ambiguous answer from the students, Ludlow said. "They couldn't care less; the enemy is Clark Kerr, a liberal Democrat who is too moderate for either the right or the left."

What about the Communist threat at Cal? "It's a crucial problem, but it has been over-stated regarding Cal. The drive is not communistic; it is guided by the New Left who supply the energy, creative energy, for their direction."

Applications Due For Army Awards

Applications for Army ROTC scholarships are now being taken in MH308. Three two-year scholarships will be awarded to SJS men with two years of college left. Applications are being taken through Sunday for the scholarships.

The scholarships cover two years and pay $50 per month plus all college costs. After graduation the recipient receives a commission in the Army as a second lieutenant to serve four years plus two years in reserves.

Election for the scholarships is based on competitive examinations and interviews.

One-Act Plays Reflect Efforts Of 3 SJS Student Directors

By CHARLOTTE WONG
Fine Arts Editor

Reviewers of theatre productions often pay more attention to the performances turned in by actors and to the theme and structure of the play presented than they do to the role of the director.

That this is so is not wrong since the playgoer sees only the finished product, not the molding interaction process of actor and director.

The directing aspect of play production cannot be ignored, however, in the Drama Department's presentation of three one-act plays tonight and tomorrow at 8:15 p.m. in the College Theatre since this is the first time students are directing productions on the mainstage for paying audiences. If the experiment is successful, student direction on a professional basis may become a regular practice.

Tickets for Murray Schisgal's "Windows," Edward Albee's "The Death of Bessie Smith" and Anton Chekov's "The Wedding" are available at the College Theatre Box Office between 1-5 p.m. Prices are 75 cents for SJS students and $1 for others.

Tracy Thornell, senior drama major, is director of "Windows," a recent drama which discusses the middle-class values held by teenagers and members of suburban society.

Stanley Anderson Jr., drama graduate, is director of "The Death of Bessie Smith," a social commentary on prejudice based on the death of the blues "empress" of the twenties.

Eddy Emanuel, drama graduate, is director of "The Wedding," a Russian farce set in the 1890s which pokes fun at middle class morals by depicting events at a wedding party.

While the directors agree that the play text is but a skeleton around which to build the production and that the director's job is to guide the actor, the actual degree of that guidance varies with the nature of their plays and the size of their casts.

HOSPITAL INTERN (Erik Riswold, right) interrogates shocked crash victim (Leroy McDonald, center) as nurse (Elizabeth Jarrett) looks on. They will appear in "The Death of Bessie Smith" at 8:15 tonight and tomorrow in the College Theatre. Admission is 75 cents to students and $1 to others at the theatre box office.

Anderson, with a small cast of seven performing in a play that culminates in a Southern hospital, believes that the load of the directorial responsibility of his play lies with his actors and their "awareness of what is happening."

The cast of "Bessie" toured a hospital at different times of the day to gain an understanding of medical work and organization. The director believes the visits made it easier for him to communicate with them.

Thornell, with an even smaller cast of five, agrees with Anderson. He believes that actors should embellish the text.

"I don't want to be autocratic. I think that when actors get going they come up with bits of action that are better than those a director would give them," he commented.

Emanuel, who has a cast of 17 involved in dancing as well as in dialogue, disagrees with his fellow directors.

With a cast twice the size of the others, Emanuel believes his actors tended at times to get too close to the material and "to put things in that I do not wish to put in."

"I try to let the actors create, but the director creates the creation by molding it," he added.

Master's Recital

SJS' graduate student Peter Del Grande will present his master's recital in Concert Hall Sunday at 3 p.m. Admission is free.

The recital will include works by Handel, Tchaikovsky, Dvorak, Debussy and Ives. Dae Baird, graduate music major, will accompany Del Grande on the piano.

Glee Clubs' Drive For Class Signup Concludes Today

Glee Club Sign-up Day ends today with booths set up on Seventh Street and at the Bookstore, according to Brent Heisinger, assistant professor of music and Glee Clubs director.

Interested students may sign up for Music 121, Women's Glee Club and 122, Men's Glee Club. There are no prerequisites and each course is worth one unit, he said.

Men and Women's Glee Clubs are not just for music majors, but all students. Three-fourths of the clubs' memberships include non-music majors, he explained.

The Glee Club Choral, including outstanding singers from both clubs, was started this semester, he declared.

A spring trip has been planned and will be coordinated with out-of-area alumni. Previous trips have involved performances for the public in Hollister and Castro Valley, as well as high school performances. A spring concert open and free of charge will be performed May 12, he explained.

Cagers Looking for Win

Spartan basketballers will be looking for their first win in five attempts tomorrow night at 8 when they pit their scoring strength against the Pepperdine Waves in Spartan Gym. The game will be preceded at 6 p.m. when the Spartababe cagers take on Cal State at Hayward.

On the basis of an earlier meeting in the WCAC Christmas tourney, tomorrow evening's Spartan-Wave bash could be an old-fashioned shoot-out.

SJS nearly saw a 20-point lead disappear in the tourney game, but pulled out the victory, 94-88. The Spartans have not won since.

Leading the Waves will be 6-9 transfer Hal Grant. In the vacation tourney, Grant was an all-tourney pick and the fray's second leading scorer.

Backing Grant are Tandy Holmes—the WCAC's second leading conference point-earner as a junior last year—Bill Mozee and Tim Flowers.

For the Spartans, forward Steve Schlink will again carry the scoring burden. In recent outings, Schlink has had little support from teammates. Hitting for 229 points, a 20.9 average, the slender senior has netted more than a hundred points over his nearest teammate, Rick Carpenter (11.7 an 127 points.)

SJS will be looking for its first conference win in the battle. In their only other league encounter, the University of California at Santa Barbara dropped Danny Glines troops.

Glins expects to be ready for action tomorrow.

He served as an interested spectator Tuesday night while the Melbourne Australians dropped SJS, 90-85. Stan Morrison, freshman coach, will again be ready to handle the chores if needed.

At any rate, however, Morrison will at least see earlier duty when the freshmen go against Cal State at Hayward in the preliminary.

The Spartababes will be out to even their season record at 4-4.

Top Gymnasts Battle Tonight

Another of the top gymnasts in the country will be on display tonight when SJS opens the new year against Long Beach State and Cal Poly, San Luis Obispo, at Spartan Gym. The match is scheduled to start at 7:30.

Long Beach State, rated No. 5 among West Coast gymnastic powers, has the highly-touted Fred Siebum leading the way. Last year Siebum reached the NCAA finals in both the side horse and parallel bars.

The Spartans will counter with Tony Coppola, anxious to break out of an early season slump. An injury hampered the small gymnast in the SJS season opener in Sacramento, but coach Clair Jennett said his ace performer is ready for full-time duty.

Coppola will handle one-half of the SJS all-around team with Mike Fjestad getting his first real test in the all-around division.

Fjestad, only a sophomore, made the jump into the all-around class shortly before the holidays.

Long Beach is rated the favorite in the triangular scoring with the Spartans and Cal Poly expected to battle for second place honors.

Matmen Favored In Two Matches

Spartan wrestlers hope to remain "almost" perfect tonight at 7:30 when they encounter the Stanford Indians on Spartan battlegrounds.

SJS, losers only once this season in dual meets, will be rated a slight favorite tonight, but both teams look to improve upon last campaign's tie.

So far Hugh Mumby's grapplers have had little trouble in dual competition, winning three of four contests. The triumphs include two shutouts and lopsided conquest of San Francisco State. Their only loss was an 18-9 decision to powerful Fresno State.

The Indians finished fourth to SJS in the Northern California Invitational held earlier in the campaign at Spartan Gym. But Mumby isn't expecting an easy victory this time.

Tomorrow the grapplers go right back into action, facing Long Beach State in Spartan Gym at 3 p.m.

"We met them (Long Beach) a few years back down in Long Beach, but I'm not sure what they have now."

Judoists Compete In Novice Meet

Potential Spartan judoists will be unveiled tonight in the Pacific Association Novice AAU meet in Spartan Gym at 6 p.m.

Judo competitors that have not yet made a jump from the white belt division will compete from Bay Area schools.

"Our future team will come from many of the judoists in this meet," coach Yosh Uchida said.

"Many of our current black belt performers on the varsity got their start in the Novice meet," he added.

"The meet should be really interesting and a lot of fun for the judoists. It may even be the start of a real good career," Uchida concluded.

'Family Struggle' Probable In Elks' Bowl Tomorrow

The third annual Elks' Bowl game, scheduled for tomorrow in Spartan Stadium, could result in an interesting family duel.

In one corner will be Henry Camacho, a second team All-American for SJS, and in the other corner Ramundo Camacho, an honorable mention All-American and brother of the Spartans' Henry.

The younger Camacho led the Quincy, Ill. College soccer team to the NAIA championship this season and is scheduled to be in the lineup when the All-Star composed of players from Guadalajara of Oakland and the San Jose Latino Club take the field for the charity contest tomorrow at 2 p.m.

A change in the regular line-up that led SJS to a 9-2 season record could be necessitated by an injury, according to coach Julie Menendez.

Camacho suffered a slight injury playing for Guadalajara and may not be ready for the contest.

If not, Menendez said he would move Fred Nourzad to Camacho's right wing position.

Rough Field For Spikers

Competition is expected to get tougher yet for Tommy Smith and Spartan tracksters Sunday evening at 6:30 in the Athens Invitational in the Oakland Sports Arena.

Fierce is the word for the competitors in the 60-yard dash field. In the first heat alone, Smith will go against 60 world record holder Charlie Green, British Olympian, Menzie Campbell, Russ Hodge and Jim Smith.

Fighting for the finals berth in the other heat will be Spartan spiker Bob Griffin, Fresno flash Darel Newman, Tommy's brother, Ernie, NCAA 440 champ Jim Hines and footballer O. J. Simpson.

The top three in each heat will go in the finals.

For the mile relay team, competition will come in the form of the Long Beach 49'ers and Striders.

Going for Bud Winter's unit will be Ken Shackelford, Bob Talmadge, Lee Evans and Smith.

Spartan Mermen Face Chico State

Wildcats are not inclined to water, but coach Tom O'Neill and his SJS swimmers can expect anything but an easy time when the Spartans entertain Chico State Saturday afternoon at 2 in Spartan Pool.

SJS owns a 1-1 season record while the Wildcats have yet to see action this season and O'Neill feels this could be the key to the match.

"Chico is in the same boat as we were last week against Oregon," the coach commented. "We were not in shape and showed it during the final events." SJS lost 61-43 to the Ducks.

A member of the Far Western Conference, Chico State is working under a new coach this season.

Ernie Maglischo inherited several of the Chico stars of last season including All-American Chuck Hay.

Leading SJS will be Steve Hoberg, a double-victor in the Spartans' 83-20 win over Oregon State last Saturday. He captured the 200 individual medley and 200 butterfly events.

Intramurals

SWIMMING

The All-College Intramural swimming meet will be held this afternoon at 3:30 in Spartan Pool.

Trials for the 10-event meet were scheduled last night. Swimmers will compete in the 100 yard medley relay, 50 freestyle, 50 butterfly, 50 backstroke, 100 free, 50 breaststroke, 100 individual medley, 100 free relay and 24 yard shuttle walk.

Death Valley Trip Offers One Unit General Education Science Credit

Students of all majors will soon have an opportunity to fulfill one unit of general education science requirement by studying nature firsthand.

The twentieth annual expedition to Death Valley sponsored by the School of Natural Sciences and Mathematics as part of its List C, or natural science curriculum, will be conducted during Easter Vacation from March 19 through 25.

Registration for the excursion will be held February 14 in the Science Building from 8 a.m. to noon, preference number cards earlier. Tuition fees for the extension course are $30 and should be paid at registration.

An additional $12 covering food expenses may be paid at the beginning of the course.

Headquarters for the expedition will be in Ryan, a mining town located in Death Valley. Daily trips to different parts of the valley will be led by school of science faculty.

Lessons in the mineral resources and history of Death Valley will be conducted by Bruce Roberts, associate professor of natural science; lessons in the geology of Death Valley by Dr. Wayne Kartchner, professor of geology; local plant life will be discussed by Clifford Schmidt, assistant professor of biological and natural science; vertebrate animals by Dr. Henry Weston, professor of biology; and local insects by Ronald Stecker, assistant professor of entomology.

Those students wishing to repeat Death Valley expedition for one credit will be led by Dr. G. A. McCallum, professor of biology. Repeaters will be given special tours and classes.

Transportation to Death Valley will be by car and may be arranged for those who can not provide their own transportation.

AFROTC Cadets Change Command

A change of command ceremony for the Air Force ROTC Cadet Squadron at SJS was held yesterday afternoon. Cadet Col. Gary A. Voellger assumed command of the squadron, taking over from C/Col. Fred Morse, commander for the fall semester.

Other new cadet officers for the spring semester are C/Lt. Col. Ernie Dickens, executive officer; C/Maj. John J. Briggs, operations officer; C/Maj. James Dando, administrative officer; C/Maj. G. Derlin German, inspector; C/Maj. John Trigg, informational officer; C/Maj. Jack Kanthal, training officer; C/Maj. Emil Raffetto, finance officer; C/Maj. Raul Contreras, supply officer.
